

Appendix

Old Bearloch Sayings Collected by Mungo MacBear

If a bear had wings he would fly.

Two pots of honey don't make a pantry.

A fat bear is better than a cold fish.

One fudge doughnut deserves another.

I wasn't born last Thursday.

Next week is another seven days.

You never eat the same pancake twice.

It's not over till the fat bear falls on his face.

Eat the honey first and ask questions afterwards.

Life is not a clottie dumpling.

Home is where the honey is.

Once a bear, always a bear. Twice a bear, never a care.

It's easier to sell wool to a sheep than to steal honey from a bear.

Nothing is so good that honey can't improve it.

Never follow a seal up a mountain.

Don't try to teach your grandmother to split hares. Rabbits are easier.

The early bear is too sleepy to catch anything.

It's never too late to go to bed.

Life is just a pot of honey.

When you come to a fork in the road, take it.

Every bear has to follow his nose once in a lifetime.

A dumb dog seldom barks twice.

There's more than one way to fall out of a hammock.